

PUBLISH IN BIOETHICS

Open to all undergraduate students

The Penn Bioethics Journal (PBJ) invites submissions of papers on any aspect of bioethics written by undergraduate students. Papers can be reports of empirical research or novel syntheses of previous work in science, philosophy, public policy, or any other discipline addressing an issue in bioethics. We also accept shorter works such as news briefs and editorials. Please visit our website for more information: <http://bioethicsjournal.com>. There you will find information on the different types of pieces you can write and logistics of the review process. Submitting a paper earlier allows an author to get feedback and resubmit if needed.

First deadline: October 14, 2013

Second deadline: November 4, 2013

Third deadline: November 18, 2013

Fourth deadline: December 3, 2013
